A man committed suicide in the Schuyl-kill the other day, who first took the exterodinary precaution of twisting a bag containing stones around his neck. He was seen jumping into the river by some beys, but too late to rescue him, and his bedy was found the next day.

Quite an excitement occurred in the behinnable portion of the Chestnet promenade on Saturday evening last. A young girl who left her home under suspicious circumstances several weeks icious circumstances several weeks many unsuccessful attempt to obtain any size to her whereabouts, was seen by a friend of her father's who attempted to overtake her; but as she noticed him, she threw off her shawl and determined to run from his pursuit. In crossing the street he fell, and was nearly run over by a carriage, but, after recovering himself, he continued the pursuit until finally both arties were arrested and taken before the layor, where the circumstances were exhanded over to her parents, who intend conding her to the House of Refuge. Now is the winter of our discontent nede glerions spring by agenial April sun, which has warmed up the atmosphere to a delightful temperature and given an impetus to vegetation, which is rapidly adorning the trees with bright leaves and the earth with beautiful green grass. Meanwhile the fair ladies, who any been long sighing for the "spring later coming" rejoice in its arrival with the manifold new dresses it gives them an opportunity of purchasing and wearing Charming as the dear creatures alternative and the same state of their new spring suits, when all the some winter wear is thrown aside, and all the colors and combinations when Mr of colors that nature ever devised in her busy workshop, are richly displayed in their attire.—They can no longer be des-ignated as red, or blue, or green, or black, or yellow, or scarlet dressed ladies but each unites in her costume all the colors each unites in her costume all the colors of the rainbow, and many of them illus-trate the sacred enying of the lillies of the trate the sacred saying of the lillies of the valley, "they toil not; neither do they spin--yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." The infinite variety of female contume, is really a perplexity. You may look over a contregation of a thousand female bonnets, all corresponding to the prevailing style to a certain extent, yet no two of them smootly alike. In dress nearly the same amount of diversity exists, and while each fair one decountly worshing the reinging fair one devoutly worships the reigning Fashiou, a wide latitude is allowed in mi-acr details for the exercise of every varienor details for the exercise of every variety of taste. The spring styles appear unsually gay, and many of the new bounts are so completely embalmed in flowers, that but for the shape, and close examination, the spectator might readily suppose they were but huge boquets. The sleeves of the dresses too, are very large below the elbow, sa large that if the country with adopt it, they will serve a good bry girls adopt it, they will serve a good

—Wolfe, of "Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps" on leority, is violently - attacked by the liquor-dealers at the nightly meetings hold by them for the purpose of devising ways and means to obstruct the execution of the Maine Law, about shortly to take offee. Wolfe has been drawing attention through his advertisements, for some years, to the fact that minety-nine hundredths of all the liquor sold is more or less adulterade—a great deal of it, poison-cusly so—and has thus-been incidentally, though persons unintentionally, the means of inducing thousands of persons to use their influence for the passange of the Prohibitory Law. The lower class of liquor-dealers—those of the ratgut stripe—swear vengeance on him for exposing their reacality but the public at large are, of course incidentally, the public at large are, of course incidented to him.

—The Tribune and Times are hammaring away at each other at w great rate. If half they say of each other is true, Greeley and Raymond ought to be both sout to the Hone of Kefuge. There is some difference of opinion here, as to which of the two papers will get the best of the fight. However, as Greeley has gone to Europe, there is no doubt in our mind that T.e Time will win the belt. Raymond is a sharp hitter with both "mawleys," makes good feinis with his right, drops his left heavily on his antagonists "smeller," and silp dexterously down on his knees when it comes to a loss fight, or a hug. The Tribune champion can stand a good deal of "punishment," and sa heavy interprite fight—to the spectator.—The Here Id. and winds up with the following parag

The senior of the two, whose labors on behalf of Mr. Seward certainly entitled him to something, set his heart on the Governorship; the jumor modestly contended himself with the Lieutenant Governorship. The first was disappointed; the last obtained the prize he sought. Strange to say, instead of the feelings of brotherhood and antity which such a fraternity might be imagined to inspire, the contest was no sooner over than a war broke out between the editor who was not Governor, and the editor who was Lieutenant Governor, and the editor who was Lieutenant Governor for the state accused of baseness, slippery conduct, dishonestly and what not; on the other, we have the organ of the pious prohibitionists charged with falsehood, calumnly, hypoeriey, and all sorts of mean vices.—Naturally, one is uspicious of such very strong language.

At the same time, it must be romembered that the editor of the Tribuse and Times have known each other long, and had ample opportunities of forming a correct judgment on each other's character. They are somewhat opposed now, and are likely to tell the truth And on the whole, they may really both he right in what they as may really both be right in what they say.

DISCONTINUED—NEW ENTERPRISE.—That sterling anti-know nothing sheet, the Paqueah Journal, has been discontinued by its owner and editor, Mr. McCarty, who has made all necessary arrangements to start a new paper in Bardatown, whither he is now on his way. The new paper we understand will be issued in a few days and under the management of a gentleman so skilled in the use of the editorial quill, and so popular throughout the State will doubtless do glorious work in destroying the k. n. s. Mr. McCarty has long been recognized by the Whigs as one of the ablest and most faithful exponents of their political creed, and like thousands of other true und gallant men, he has been driven out of the Whig ranks, which have received only a few miserable camp followers of the Democrate, party in return. He enlists for the campaign, and under the broad banner of Democracy upheld and carried forward by those invincible patriots and incorruptible statesmen, Beverly L. Clark and Beriah Magoffin, his blows will be seen and full until the k. n. se, from the north of the Big Sandy to Mills Point, shall pile their dark forms upon an inglorious hecatomb and sink to sleep in eternal shame.

Our friend Twyman, of the Paducah Democrat, in more than enough for the bastard sprout of whiggery in that region. The little k. n. sheet there would not feed a single tooth in Twyman's bead.

the removal of the editor to a different field of oper utions.

Owing to domestic casualites, and circumstance arising therefrom, we now find it obligatory upon to the companions of our youth and the cherished friends of our surface of the paper suspended some years since.

In thus resuming our editorial carer in this region, we presume it unnecessary to define cur position of the paper suspended some years since the people into separate parties. Our devotion is conservative, old line Mingery—our admiratis of resume tatunch and patriotic leaders of that part as CLAY and Wansyan and other brilliant light which have faded from the political firmaness leaving no ancessors behind them—and our readiness at all times and on all occasions to do bath to the best of our ability for the men and measure of that once greaty arty—are matters well known, a least to this community. We have changed from in no respect—have abandoned no principle, and proved recreant to no promise or profession. While others in whom the Whig masses confided have shamelessly descrete their principles and their party, and, by secret combinations and decessify manneuvres, undermined the foundations of the fabric reared by Clay and his girobus comparissak week amounted to 142 beed, of which 36 beed yere shipped South, a prices ranging from 154 to 0.0 W, and according to quality of the 150 to 2.0 M and hipped South. While Mons. Godard was filling an immense balloon in the Champ de Mars, he same at the spectators by sending up the small figure of a man, the perfect semblance of M. Thiers without the spectacles. The little man being filled with gas, rose majestically into the air, and was soon lost to view among the clouds. His adventures, which became known the next day, were curious. Thanks to a strong and favoring gale which impelled him on his course, the little balloon man arrived the same afternnoon in the sight him on his course, the little balloon man arrived the same afternnoon in the sight of a fine country house in the neighborhood of Bievro. It was near the hour of dinner, and the lady of the mansion, who naturally thought herself perfectly safe, was occupied in the mysteries of her toile. It was a warm day, and she had opened one of the windows, which looked out upon the park, and was safe from any trying eyes. While tranquilly engaged by the sessistance of a corset-lacing, in reducing her waist to a size and shape that would reflect credit on her husband's taste she was suddenly startled by a blast of would reflect credit on her husband's taste she was suddenly startled by a blast of wind followed by a strange noise; and immediately the casement was thrown open, and our little balloon-man entered her chamber unannounced. The lady utters a cry of terror, and throws a shawlover her shoulders. The little man, driven by the wind, throws himself upon the unhap-py woman, who, screaming louder than ever, pushes him off, and he conceals himself under the bed.

Just as the wife, in supplicating voice, says to this novel Don Juan: "Ah! Monsieur, go away, or you will ruin me!" the husband furiously rushed in, crying: "Ah! the wretch, I have him now!" and goes in search of his sword to runhim through Son .- Yesterday we were called upon by an aged woman, whose appearance, man-ner and words, were very affecting, who wished to insert an advertisement calling for information concerning her only son, George L. Bartlett, who left his parents in Chatoubue county, New York, "on the 31st July, three years ago; I remember the very hour;" says his mother, promising positively to return in three weeks, and who has not since been heard from her his efficient relatives. In the by his afflicted relatives. In the mean-time his father has died, his sister removd with her family to Kansas, and his mother is wandering a ong strangers, friendless and poor, with but one object in life, and that to find him. The only consolation she has in the world is in the hope of meeting him, and she has been led to believe that her prayers will be an-swered in this city—that Providence, in its beneficence, will here restore her long lost one. She is now stopping in Fulton, in the family of Mr. W. Fitch, where, as she expressed it, she "labors for her dai-ly bread." She says that she knows her ly bread." She says that she knows her boy would hurry to her assistance, if he had any idea of the sufferings and humil-iations she endured during the bitter winter just past.
